BUT NOW MR. SNAPPER WANTS TO CONVERT HIS CORK FACTORY TO A ... A...

YES...MR. SNAPPER IS BRINGING IN AN ENTIRE NEW CREW OF MEN WHO KNOW ALL ABOUT PLASTICS!

THIS IS TERRIBLE! I'LL GO IN AND SPEAK TO MR. SNAPPER RIGHT NOW!

A New Hobby Gives You A Brand New Interest!

Yes, anyone from 5 to 80 can draw or sketch or paint anything now . . . the very first time you use the "Magic Art Reproducer" like a professional artist—no matter how "hopeless" you think you are! An unlimited variety and amount of drawings can be made. Art is admired and respected by everyone. Most hobbies are expensive, but drawing costs very little, just some inexpensive paper, pencils, crayons, or paint. No costly upkeep, nothing to wear out, no parts to replace. It automatically reproduces anything you want to draw on any sheet of paper. Then easily and quickly follow the lines of the "picture image" with your pencil . . . and you have an accurate original drawing that anyone would think an artist had done. No guesswork, no judging sizes and shapes! Reproduces black and white and actual colors for paintings.

Also makes drawing larger or smaller as you wish.

Anyone can use it on any desk, table, board, etc.—indoors or outdoors! Light and compact to be taken wherever you wish. No other lessons or practice or talent needed! You'll be proud to frame your original drawings for a more distinctive touch to your home. Give them to friends as gifts that are "different," appreciated.

Have fun! Be popular! Everyone will ask you to draw them. You'll be in demand! After a short time, you may find you can draw well without the "Magic Art Reproducer" because you have developed a "knack" and feeling artists have—which may lead to a good paying art career.

ALSO EXCELLENT FOR EVERY OTHER TYPE OF DRAWING AND HOBBY!

Create Your Own Designs for All Hobbies! Reproduce on anything.

Copy all cartoons, comics.

Outdoor Scenes, landscapes, buildings

Copy photos, portraits of family, friends, etc.

Sneaky the Snake

It was a perfect spring day. Mr. Cloud has decided to take a vacation himself. Hence there had been no rain for the past five days. The Sun was very happy and giving his best rays so that the flowers could bloom. Raro the Rabbit was seated on the Big Rock.

"I am bored doing nothing," he said. "Doing nothing gets me so tired."

"I just don't understand how you can do nothing," exclaimed Froggie the Frog.

"Correct," reflied the rabbit. "But got that expression from my friend Squaro the Squirrel.

"Who is using my name without my permission?" demanded the Squirrel as he quickly ran down the side of the Big Oak Tree and landed on the Big Rock.

"I think he is a little mixed up," said Froggie the Frog. "He thinks he 's a squirrel."

"All my fault," sighed Squaro the Squirrel. "I gave him some acorns and peanuts yesterday to eat. He thinks it is better than his diet of carrots and lettuce. I told him he was very silly. Because I wanted to eat carrots and lettuce. But you know there is a law. You will find it in the law books on page 2339. All rabbits must follow their diet. And so must squirrels."

Suddenly Polly the Pigeon flew down from the branch on which she had been resting. She had some news to tell her friends.

"Sally the Stilt is on the other side of the lake. She has four eggs and is building her nest."

"I remember Sally the Stilt," said the squirrel. "She is the bird with the black neck, dove sized body, and very long legs. She is in the duck family. Anything we can do to help her?"

"Suppose we go over and find out," suggested the pigeon. "I will take the short cut by flying while you run around the lake."

The rabbit, the squirrel, and the frog ran around the edge of the lake until they came to the other side.

"This always puzzles me," remarked Froggie the Frog. "We go to the other side of the lake. Then when we get there what do we find? The side we just left is now the other side. If we want to go to the other side again we go back to the side we left. We take a look at the side we left and it has become the other side. This could go on for years. We would always be looking for the other side. Never realizing the side we left has become the other side."

"Wait a minute," shouted Squaro the Squirrel. "You are mixing me up. You can't fool me. I am now on the other side. That's all there is to it."

Suddenly the frog began to count from one to sixty. His two friends waited until he had finished.

"What's the big idea of showing off that you can count from one to sixty?" demanded Squaro the Squirral.

"You just told me to wait a minute," grinned the frog. "I haven't a wrist watch. So I counted the sixty seconds. I am now through with them. Why did you want me to wait a minute?"

"Because maybe the other side of the lake would come here and change places with this side of the lake. I figured out that one side of the lake must be tired always resting in the same spot. I wanted you to wait a minute and see if it happened. It didn't happen. So I guess each side is happy where it is."

Polly the Pigeon had been looking for her three friends. She flew down to them and escorted them to some high grass. There was Mrs. Stilt with her precious eggs.

"Good afternoon Mrs. Stilt," said the polite pigeon. "We are here to pay you a visit. Anything we can do to help you? I see you are building a nest to protect your eggs."

"I am afraid that Sneaky the Snake will come and steal my eggs. He almost did it last year. And I am so tired. I want to get some rest. I wonder if you could help me. While I close my eyes and rest could you take turns watching out. If you see Sneaky the Snake then help me."

"Of course we will do that," replied Polly the Pigeon. "You just close your eyes and the four of us will be on guard."

Polly the Pigeon took charge of things. She told the frog, the squirrel, and the rabbit where to stand. Then she flew overhead so she could be watching the ground very carefully. Suddenly her keen eyes spotted something that looked l ke a piece of rope moving very slowly through the grass. She darted down quickly and told her friends about it.

"Let's surround Sneaky the Snake and see what she has to say about her actions," suggested Polly the Pigeon.

They followed her plan and the startled snake found herself completely surrounded.

"What are you doing over here in the tall grass?" demanded the rabbit.

"Getting my daily exercises," replied the snake. "I must keep in trim."

"But you could get your exercises on the other side of the lake where you live," suggested Froggie the Frog.

"I get tired of being on the same side always," sighed the snake. "It is monotonous. I wanted a change of scenery. So I came over here."

"The fact that there happen to be some baby Stilt eggs didn't have anything to do with your plans?" demanded the rabbit.

"I see I can't fool you," replied the snake. "Suppose I go over and take a good look at those eggs."

"Nothing doing," warned the squirrel. "We are four of us against one of you. If you want trouble you can get it. Furthermore we can call Foxie the Fox to help us. And you know how Foxie the Fox hates you. Just waiting for a chance to fight you."

"I am very sorry," apologized the snake. "I will go back to the other side of the lake. I promise I will not return."

The snake then changed her course of travel and slowly moved through the tall grass. Then onto the dirt, then to the mud, and then across the rocks until she came back to the other side. The four friends continued to guard the eggs carefully. And then in one quick minute it happened. The shells burst apart and the little Stilts came out.

"Mamma, where are you?" cried one of the baby Stilts.

Mrs. Stilt opened her eyes. She was now rested and she at once went over to her little children. She told them how her friends had watched over them very carefully. And protected them from Sneaky the Snake. Each little baby Stilt did the proper thing. Went over to the four friends and thanked them for what they had done. Then Mrs. Stilt and her little ones started to fly away.

"Don't they have to take flying lessons?" asked Squaro the Squirrel.

"I think they must have forty hours of solo flying before they get their pilot's license," replied the rabbit. "I am not certain about these regulations. Ask Polly the Pigeon."

"They can fly without a 2a license as long as they are with their mother," explained the pigeon. "But they must take a solo test. When they pass then they can fly away from home."

The four tired friends went back to the other side of the lake and decided to take a good long rest. The next day Mr. Cloud was still on his vacation. The four friends met near the big rock. Polly the Pigeon made a suggestion.

"I have the new address of Mrs. Stilt. Suppose we send her some presents for her little ones."

The other three thought it was a good idea. Squaro the Squirrel was about to suggest what they might send when suddenly he spotted Sneaky the Snake.

"What are you doing here?" he wanted to know.

"A big favor, please," pleaded the snake. "I am going to build my own nest next Thursday. But I am afraid of Foxie the Fox. Will you guard the eggs?"

"Only on one condition," said Raro the Rabbit. "You must promise us to be a good snake. Never be sneaky anymore. Also to raise your little ones to be good snakes."

"Promise made," said a happy snake. "I will turn over a new leaf."

"But don't turn me," shouted a new leaf that had just fallen from the Big Oak Tree.
